Future Electric

The National Waterways Museum at Ellesmere Port plays an important role in preserving some of our nation's key historic boats and explaining the fascinating story of how our canals made a vital contribution to Britain's Industrial Revolution. We owe an immense debt of gratitude to those early volunteers whose inspired determination to preserve the past resulted in the restoration of some of the wonderful port buildings and canal features we enjoy today. Now in 2026, volunteers still make a valuable contribution to the running of the seven-acre site, working alongside the staff to welcome more than 20,000 visitors a year. During this year's 50th anniversary it would be great to see even more people enjoying a fantastic visit to the superb waterside museum.
